ATLANTA, GA., TUESDAY MORNING, JANUARY 20, 1891.

IN "HELL'S BOTTOM,"

WHERE THE DONATIONS OF THE DUPES WERE DIVIDED.

ABOUT THE BIG AFRICAN SWINDLE. Sharp Negroes Who Have Put Up a Game

on Their Brethren and Caused Them to Turn Congo-ward. WASHINGTON, January 19.-[Special.]-

When the 2,000 negroes now stranded in Atlanta, waiting to go to Liberia, learn that the United States and Congo National Emigration Steamship Company is a gigantic swindle, the chances are they will be anxious to have a small lynching bee with Rev. Thomas Peek, of Marietta, and Olive Davis as

THE HEADQUARTERS OF THE COMPANY. The headquarters of the concern is here. It is located in a small but out in that portion of Washington known as "Hell's Bottom." This place is presided over by a half dozen of the toughest specimens of genus African to be found in Washington. They are, however, a shrewd set. Two of them, William O'Brien, the treasurer, and Thomas J. Clayton, the secretary, are employed in the war and treasury departments respectively. Then they have a white attorney named Tharin, who is in the sixth auditor's office. A CONGRESSMAN BROUGHT IN.

Although the concern on its face is a swindle and a fraud, it will be hard to reach the conspirators by legal means. The company has a charter from congress, and through this charter the conspirators have been working the swindle. Perhaps unwittingly, Congressman Thompson, of Ohio, is connected with the swindle. He has introduced a bill in congress, at the request of the negroes composing the company, for the government to expend the money due the states, on account of the direct tax, is aiding the Congo company to transport negroes to Liberia. The bill provides for an appropriation of $100 to the company for each negro transported to Liberia, the company being required to support the negroes for sixty days. A copy of this bill is sent on with circulars of the company, which promise each unmarried negro man ten acres of the richest land in Liberia, granted the company by the government. Each married man is to be given twenty-five acres.

PROFESSOR HERSHAW GETS IN.
Tonight L. W. Hershaw, a bright young nulatto of Atlanta, employed in the land office, got into the meeting and gave me a whole exposure of the swindle. Thomas J Clayton, the secretary, told him that Olive Davis had brought only $1,065 from the At lanta colony. The money was taken by O'Brien, the treasurer, another government employe, who says he deposited $565 of it in bank and deposited $500 with the agent here of the North German Lloyd Steamship Com-

This is not believed to be true, although of cannot be gotten tonight. Clayton says Davis got a receipt for it, but was told the steamship could not be gotten now, but they loped one could be gotten in the spring. Clayton further said the agents in Georgia were not authorized to take any money except for stock in the company, which would authorize the holder of the stock to go to Liberia when a steamship was purchased.

WHAT PEEK HAS TO SAY. Rev. Thomas Peek, the Marietta negro preacher, who worked up the enthusiasm in Georgia, is here to get his share of the swag. Peek says $,000 negroes are in Georgia ready to go, each of whom has paid $1 for passage. Two hundred thousand more, he says, are ready to pay up. He says the officers of the company here told him it was all right, and that they would get a ship to carry them. He further says he went to Baltimore vesterday to buy a ship for $200,000, but he didn't know when he will close the trade. He told this before he suspected the nature of Hershaw's visit.

HE BEGAN TO HEDGE. When he found out the swindle was to be exposed, he said he would not go back to Georgia, but that if anything was wrong he had been deceived by the officers of the com-

Rev. T. L. Green, general manager, keeps a shoe shop in a hut in south Washington. He says the Georgia agent did not abide his instructions, and that the company might not be ready to carry any body for five years; but he will give all those who have paid anything stock which will entitle them to go when the company gets a ship and a government appro-

If, as Peek says, they have collected from 8.000 negroes $1 each, the gang has quite a swag to divide. For months past the negro, Green, has been receiving piles of registered letters daily, containing $1 and a 2-cent stamp each. The dollar is for passage to Liberia, when the company gets ready to start its ship. The stamp is to eturn the certificate, which entitles the holder

The company seems to be one of the most gigantic swindling schemes of the age. But ss some of the defrauded negroes prosecute the leaders, the chances are that the rascals will go scot free. It is believed the meeting in "Hell's Bottom" tonight was to divide the E. W. B.

A HEAVY BANK FAILURE. Secretary Blaine Said to Be a Large Stockholder.

KANSAS CITY, Mo., January 19.—The American National bank, of this city, was taken charge of today by F. E. Marshall, national bank examiner for the state of Missouri. The capital stock of the bank is $125,000. No statement of liabilities or assets can be obtained. During the early part of last week it became known to members of the Kansas City clearing house that the American National bank was in need of assistance. A neeting of the association was called, at which a resolution was adopted assuring the bank that upon a proper showing assistance would be rendered to the amount of $1,000,000 or more. An investigating committee reported to a meeting of the association last night that the collaterals offered by the American National bank were not such as the banks of the association would accept. This decision made the failure of the bank inevitable, and the national bank examiner thereupon assumed charged of the bank's affairs.

The stockholders of the bank are all eastern men. Secretary Blaine is said to hold $50,000 of the stock.

RUN ON A SAVINGS BANK.

As a result of the failure of the American National bank, a great deal of uneasiness has been created among the depositors of the Kan-sas City Safe and Savings Deposit bank, which is in the same building with the American National bank, and is supposed by many to be connected with it, and there is a tre-mendous run on that institution. The side-walk was blocked and the doors of the bank walk was blocked and the doors of the bank crowded with depositors anxious to recover their savings. The bank is paying all depositors promptly, and officials claim that they can meet all obligations. The bank is in no way cannected with the American. It is the largest savings bank in the state, and its officers are the most careful and conservative business men of the city.

KNOXVILLE, Tenn., January 19.—[Special.]—
Judge Howell E. Jackson, United States circuit judge, is on the bench in the federal court today. No action has yet been taken on the application for a receivership for the Knoxville Southern road, now on petition for injunction against the Central Trust Company. The court was engaged this afternoon trying the damage suit of Rev. R. J. Cooke against the Cumberland Gap Construction Company for $15,000, for injuries sustained in the memorable Flat Creek wreck, in 1889. That wreck was that of the first train bearing a wreck was that of the first train bearing a committee of inspection of work, which went off a trestle and killed six of Knoxville's leading citizens. Cooke was on the train going to conserence, but without a ticket or invitation. It is believed that the case will go against him. The heirs of the city officials who were killed have also sued. It is thought that they have a much better chance of winning. Cooke's case will be a test of all those suits of parties who were on without invitations. No tickets at all were then sold. The train was the first to start over the road. The total alleged damages pending growing out of that wreck is $275,000.

ALLIANCE PRESIDENT TO BE OUSTED.

TOPEKA, Kans., January 19 .- The war wheh was begun on Erank McGrath, president of the Farmers' Alliance, as soon as the Turner letter had been published, has broken out anew and threatens so play havoc with all caucus

The judiciary committee which investigated McGrath's alleged connection with the Turner letter, has, after more than a week's deliberation, decided to request the president's resigna-tion, and the president has fully dicided that he will stay till he is kicked out. There is no provision in the alliance constitution by which he can be ousted, and the president declares that he will not resign unless the alliance at large demands it, and he wants to know what the judiciary committee is going to do about it.

The resignation of McGrath will be requested either Tuesday or Wednesday by the executive council of that body. President McGrath was requested to bring before the committee an affidavit from Congressman Turner, Senator Berry and Congressman Perkins, exonerating him from any collusion with the epublican leaders. The president either had not attempted to secure this or has been unable to do so.

A detective was then employed to investigate his record for the last three months and it was his report to the committee which has resulted in the alliance president's temporary disgrace.

ASKED TO STEP DOWN, THE BILL WON'T PASS.

A SHARP SKIRMISH THE WHOLE DAY, In Which the Preliminary Fight over th Cloture Rule Is Waged-The Senate Takes a Recess Until Today.

WASAINGTON, January 19 .- [Spe-cial.]-The final struggle over the force bill did not commence today, as was antici-

There was, however, some very sharp and significant skirmishing this morning over Vice-President Morton's decision last Friday, that an appeal from a decision on a non-debatable question was itself not debatable, to which attention was called at considerable ength in these dispatches last night. Senator Hoar concluded that nothing could be gained by an all night session tonight, and the senate, therefore, was allowed to adjourn this evening until noon tomorrow.

THE CLOTURE STRUGGLE. As soon as the senate convenes the cloture esolution will be called up by Senator Aldrich. The plans of the republicans do pot appear to be fully matured, as there is some question whether any debate is to be allowed, but it is believed that Aldrich is in favor of permitting discussion on the resolution until Thursday, as the democrats with their republican allies might be able to break a quorum, unless several of the absentees, who have been tele-graphed for, arrive.

A BARE QUOEUM.

There is now a bare quorum of republican members in the city, but the force bill managers are afraid that several of them will ac with the democrats, if the latter should resort to the parliamentary expedient of refusing to vote. It is claimed that Vice President Morton has been completely subdued, and will act as the willing tool of the radicals, but it remains to be seen whether he can be induced to follow the practice of arbitrary rulings and refusing to recognize democrats, which has made Speaker Reed odious. But notwithstanding the apparent gloomy character of the outlook, the democrats are serenely confident that they will bring off the victory and prevent the passage of the bill.

WHAT TELLER SAYS. Senator Teller said tonight that at least ten republican senators would vote with the democrats against a gag rule, and further, that there is no possible chance of the force bill passing the senate.

The Day in the Senate. The senate met at 11 o'clock a. m. Mr. Blair had returned from his unsuccessful contest for the senate met at 10 clock a. m. Mr. Blair had returned from his unsuccessful contest for re-election and was being read, cordially greeted and sympathized with by senators of both parties, and among others by Mr. Ingalls, whose own re-election appears to be in such danger. After the reading of the journal there was a colloquy between Messrs. Gorman and Hoar as to its correctness on some points, and the matter was satisfactorily adjusted. Mr. Gorman, however, availed himself of the occasion to argue against the correctness of the decision of the vice president dring Friday's session to the effect that an appeal in that decision was not debatable because the question itself, on which the decision was made was an undebatable one. Mr. Gorman admitted that that rule, although in direct conflict with all authorities, had obtained until 1884, when the rule was modified so as to make it conform to general parliamentary law.

Mr. Hoar inquired what the motion was.

Mr. Gorman said that it was a motion to correct the journal.

Mr. Hoar desired to have the motion stated formally.

Mr. Spooner thought that Mr. Gorman might be allowed to go on and state his views without any particular formality.

Mr. Gorman expressed his indebtedness to Mr. Spooner, who, he said, was always frank and fair. Mr. Hoar explained that if Mr. Gorman desired to have the journal amended, either substantially or formally, he wished to have it stated. If, on the other hand, he wished unanimous consent to proceed with his remarks he (Hoar) would not object.

Mr. Gorman stated that, under the rules, as it stood prior to 1884, debate was not in order on an appeal where the original question was not destood prior to 1884, debate was not in order on an appeal where the original question was not debatable, but that, under the change then made, the question of order might be raised at any stage of proceeding, and should be de ided without debate "subject to appeal to the senate." Any appeal taken on any subsequent question of order should be decided without debate. It was perfectly clear, he argued, and one which did not admit of two opinions, that a rule which had prevented debate on an appeal where the question itself was undebatable, was then abrogated.

Discussion was kept up until half past 12 o'clock, when Mr. Gorman withdrew his motion.

THE JOURNAL APPROVED.

THE JOURNAL APPROVED.

The journal of Friday was approved, and morning business was proceeded with. At 1 o'clock the elections bill was taken up as At loclock the elections bill was taken up as unfinished business, and Mr. George took the floor. He yielded to Mr. Hoar, who sent to the clerk's desk and had read a letter to himself from Postmaster Randolph, of Anniston, Ala., denying the statement made a few days ago by Mr. Jones, of Arkansas, to the effect that Mr. Carnochan—the writer of an article in a church paper of Little Rock, Ark., which Mr. Hoar had brought forward—had gone to Little Rock from Cincinnati, and stating that Mr. Carnochan had been rector of a church in Anniston for four or five years, and was a Virginian and a strict party democrat.

THAT SMART POSTMASTER. gave a member of the house and Senator Carlisle is authority for his original statement, which Mr. clisic corroborated by saying that he had known. Carnochan personally for a number of year a resident of Covington, Ky., opposite Cincin

Mr. Morgan wound up that little episode by the remark that if the Anniston postmaster certified to Mr. Carnochan's democracy, his democratic character would be ruined.

Mr. George then went on with his speech, beginning with the statement of political methods of apportionment in Connecticut compared with Mississippi.

Mississippi.

After exhausting the subject in Connecticut he took it up in the state of New York, from which, he said, although it was a democratic state on a popular vote, but no democrat had been sent to the senate in twenty years (with the chance of one this year), the apportionment being so arranged as to give the republicans a very large majority in the legislature.

The methods of apportionment in Massachusetts next came in review, as well as the educational qualification for voters.

Then taking up the question in Wisconsin Mr. George showed how, in 1885, the extension of suffrage to negroes was submitted to the popular vote and was rejected by a majority of over 9,000.

NEGRO SUFFRAGE IN THE NORTH.

NEGRO SUFFRAGE IN THE NORTH.

After a statement of the action of several states on the subject of negro suffrage (after it had been imposed on the south), Mr. George remarked that in Michigan, Ohio, Illinois and Wisconsin the question had been submitted to the people and had been rejected by large majorities—thus showing that the white people of those northern states would not have it for themselves. It was good enough for the southern states, where there were ten, twenty or a hundred negroes for every negro in the northern states.

The senate had heard (on a bill admitted by its advocates to contain not one word that could correct alleged evils in the constitution of Mississippi) the state of Mississippi arraigned day after day for a provision in her constitution that was less indeterminate, less lax, less liable to abuse, than the constitution of several states to which he had called the attention of the senate.

As to SUPERVISORS

Mr. George yielded to Mr. Hoar, who entered a motion to reconsider the vote by which the number of supervisors at each poll had been increased from three to four. If that motion prevailed, he would then move to reduce the number to two. As the bill had fome from the house, and as it had been for three supervisors, not more than two of whom should be of the same political party.

"That is," Mr. George suggested, "two substant republicants one sulparer demograting."

"That would depend," Mr. Hoar, replied, "and a supervisor and an appear and a substant republicants one sulparer demograting."

and as a general rule one slippery democrat is, I think, equal to two honest republicans."

Mr. George proceeded with his argument, quoting from the views of distinguished republicans in the reconstruction period, as to the incapacity of negroes to exercise the right of suftrage, and insisting upon it that negro suffrage was imposed upon the southern people as a measure of punishment for their rebellion and for party purposes.

party purposes.

Quoting Edmunds's Words.

Mr. George quoted from remarks of Mr. Ed-munds in the senate to the effect that it was not good for the negro to be with the white people in ermont or Massachusetts. "This idea," Mr. Ed

Vermont or Massachusetts. "This idea," Mr. Edmunds said on that occasion, "was based on the belief that nafions and races, as constituted by the God of nature and by political and geographical divisions and arrangements, get on better as separate families, with their separate independence and their separate independence and their separate institutions than if they are amalgamated together." Never, Mr. George added, had wiser-words been spoken. And yet their wisdom was only recognized when the question was whether it was a good thing for a black man and a white man to be together in Vermont and Massachusetts, and was not recognized or applicable to Mississippi or Louisiana.

Mr. Hawley recalled a statement made by Mr. Walthall some weeks ago as to several counties in Mississippi, where most of the offices are held by negroes, and asked Mr. George whether it was true that in those counties, the negroes were doing well and were governing themselves?

Mr. George turned the question over to his colleague.

WALTHALL AND HAWLEY. Mr. Walthall said that in not one of the cour ties referred to had the negroes taxing power. In not one of them was there a negro sheriff, or a majority of the board of supervisors. But in all majority of the board of supervisors. But in all of them the negroes held offices that were consistent with public and private interests.

Mr. Hawley—Then, please, let them vote for members of congress. That has nothing to do with the local government or their taxing powers.

Mr. Waithall—They do vote for members of congress and vote peaceably. In the very district in which these counties (all but one) are situated there has been a contest going on in the house, and it has been given out to all newspapers that the republican committee on elections could find no ground on which to make a report adverse to any sitting member who is a democrat.

Mr. Hawley—Then it is settled that in several counties in Mississippi, negroes can vote and have their votes counted, without danger to the democracy.

Mr. Weithell H. Hars he a condition, it ought.

Mr. Waithall—If that be a condition, it ought the force bill. [Applause in the galleries.]
Mr. Hawley—There is some doubt whether the colored yote is to be full in the south.
Mr. Walthall—I will now turn you over to my colleague.

Mr. Wathall—I will now turn you over to my colleague.

Mr. Hawley—That is a very handsome division of labor. All sides of the question are taken care of.

Mr. Walthall—Very satisfactorily to us.

Mr. George resumed the floor and explained and justified his own action in regard to the suffrage clause in the constitution of Mississippi.

After having spoken five hours he yielded the floor without having concluded his speech, and the senate, at 6 o'clock p. m., went into executive session, and soon afterwards adjourned till tomorrow noon.

The Colonel Was Mad. Colonel I. W. Avery, of Atlanta, Senator Brown's private secretary, feels very much outraged with President Harrison because the president refused to provide an office for Mrs. Lilla Parker, of Atlanta. Mrs. Parker is in needy circumstances, and as she is the widow of a union soldier, Colonel Avery thought the president should provide an office for her. When Colonel Avery called at the white house, Mr. Harrison told him he had no time to attend to such trivial matters. Indeed, the president snubbed Colonel Avery and the colonel was very angry. Colonel Avery says Harrison is a hard-hearted brute, without sympathy for even the starving widow of a union soldier, and this is practically what he told the president.

Georgia Matters.

Mrs. F. C. Harrison has been appointed postmaster at Pond Fork, Jackson county, and L. M. Jackson at Rowland, Upson county.

Senator-elect Gordon is in New York today He will, however, be here to spend some time within a few days.

Senator Colquitt is greatly annoyed at the criticisms in many of the Georgia papers on his absence from the senate. Such criticisms are unjust, for Senator Colquitt has been ill for a month or more. His physician says he hopes to have him out soon, but that it is of erate veterans, on February 6th. the utmost importance that he should keep his room for the present. Exposure with his trouble might prove very serious.

The new Georgia congressmen are expected Dr. L. D. Carpenter, of Atlanta, and Dr. G W. McElhany, of Columbus, are here in conference with dentists from other cities preparparing for a great dental convention at the world's fair.

"In presenting this report of the finance committee," said Mr. Rice, "I want to say again that it is the best solution we can give, and I do sincerely trust that this body will see fit to adopt it as it is given. We have given to each department more money than it has ever had, and in order to do so we have left a smaller contingent fund—the smallest, possibly, the city has ever had. Any one who will make the same careful investigation of the question we have made will concur with us."

"I can't say that I object to the sheet," said Mr.
Woodward, "and yet I do. I can't see why the finance committee should divide out the sewer but I think the saw committee classifications. but I think the sewer committee alone should pu that money where the members want I don't think the finance committee I don't think the finance committee has anything to do with it except to give the amount credited to that committee. am of the opinion we should change that or wipe it out except in the aggregate amount given the sewers."

"I am inclined to concur with Mr. Woodward," said Mr. McBride. "I think it is enough to give the total amount to the committee and let the committee and let the committee and to the committee and let the committee and the the committee and the the committee and the the committee and the committee and commence should have charge of the appropriation."

"I believe," said Mr. Hulsey, "that the money would be expended as the finance committee has put it down, but I am like Mr. McBride. I think the sewer committee ought to handle it."

"I am a member of the sewer committee," said Mr. King, "and the other two members, Mr. Hendrix and Mr. Shropshire are members of the finance committee. The first I knew of this matter was hearing that report read and I must say that I heartily approve it."

Mr. Hendrix presented the paper from the council of '90, showing that the building of the Loyd street sewer by the council of '91 had been recommended by the sewer committee, the general council and the mayor of 1850 and the board of health.

"The council of last year," said Mr. Woodward, "has nothing to do with this. This is our work. Awreat many people have been to me for these two sewers, and I am free to say that seven out of every ten have property interested. There are five other, trunk sewers needing work, and other places need sewers. I am opposed to this division. Let the sum total go to the sewer committee, and let that domnittee divide it. The same may be aid of the street and bridge fund. I know the length attreet bridge is needed, but the Bread street bridge is more important. This report look like a cut and dried thing, and it shall not be sus ained by my vote."

Mr. King again spoke at length in support of Mr. King again spoke at length in support of the report.
"I don't think I have ever been apprehensive on account of my work in this body but once," said Mr. Hutchison, "and that was last year when we ordered that work on those two sewers. But those two sewers are needed and we must have them. Otherwise no such large appropriation would have been made by the sewer committee. Let's build them now, not a block or two at a time, but go on with them, and then build others. The board of health say they are a necessity."

The report of the committee was then adopted by the council—the members of the board of aldermen not being allowed to vote.

The Two Sewers.

Mr. Hendrix, chairman of the sewer committee esented an ordinance to construct a sewer from Crew street southward to near the old city limits at an estimated cost of $40,000.

$500,000. They were both read the first time and ordered

The Fersyth Street Bridge. Mr. Turner, chairman of the committee on bridges, presented a resolution looking to the immediate construction of a bridge over Forsyth street. It stipulated:

That the bridge committee be and is hereby authorized to advertise for bids for the erection of an iron bridge, on Forsyth street over the several railroad tracks crossing said street. Such bids to be made for the erection of the bridge and roadway according to specifications to be furnished by the city engineer under the direction of said committee.

All bidders, in addition to bids according to such specifications, are invited to propose modifications, improvements or additions, with the additional cost thereof.

The mayor and general council reserve the right The committee to report all bids to the next meeting of the mayor and general council after they have been received, with the recommendation of the committee thereon.

The resolution was adopted without discussion and without a dissenting vote.

The Bids for Curbing.
The bids for curbing were received and opened hey were, H. L. Collier, for straight curbing, 37.5 cents

H. L. Collier, for straight curbing, 37.5 cents, and circular curbing, 72 cents.

A. V. Gude, for straight curbing, 41 cents.

G. W. Johnson, for straight curbing, 37.5 cents.

Mr. Hendrix moved that they all be rejected.

Alderman Hutchison wanted the bids referred to the street committee.

Mr. Hulsey said the bills were nearly what they were before. That there was a rock union at Lithonia, and the bidders were compelled to buy their stone from the union and pay the price.

This was the trouble, and unless the union could be induced to furnish rock cheaper, the bids should continue the same.

Mr. Rice was satisfied nothing better could be done than to let the bids to the lowest bidder. He moved that they be referred to the street committee with the direction to accept the lowest bid.

Mr. Lambert thought the matter should be acted upon at once.

Mr. King moved to accept the bid of Mr. Collier.

Mr. King moved to accept the bid of Mr. Collier.

Mr. Hendrix wanted to accept the bid for six months instead of for one year.

Mr. Reinhardt wanted to re-advertise for bids for three, six or nine months, or one, three or five

Opening of Alabama Street.

Opening of Alabama Street.

The special committee on opening Alabama street westward, composed of Mr. Kinyon, Mr. Hirsch and Mr. King, made this report:

The committee found a very general desire for the opening of the street, and are satisfied that the interests of a large part of the city would be subserved by the opening of the street.

The committee finds that legislation will be necessary, however, on account of the state's owning the Western and Atlantic property. An act is now pending before the legislature which is necessary to surmount this obstacle. The committee believes that the report will pass at the summer session, and ask that such action be taken as will authorize proper proceedings in this matter, by an appropriate committee, when the act is passed. They, therefore, ask that the matter be referred to the new council.

Payment of Assessment Bills.

ing the collection of improvement bills: Resolved, That the street committee be in structed to confer with the different contractors to see if any arrangement can be made, by which the city will only be required to pay her proportion in eash on all permanent work; the contractors to take all bills of assessment for the balance and allow owners of abutting property the privilege of paying the same at their option, in * installments, at the rate of 25 per cent per annum, with legal interest on the deferred payments, and report at the next meeting, together with such recommendations as they deem for the best interests of the city and people.

The City Printing.

Mr. Hendrix read a resolution touching the city printing. Its text was to let all advertising, by the city or any city official, to the lowest bidder for the year 1891. Bids to be limited to THE AT-LANTA CONSTITUTION and the Atlanta Evening Journal, said bids to be made to the committee on printing within ten days from date, which mittee is hereby authorized to accept the low est bidder and enter into a contract for said advertising under such regulations as they may

To Annex West End.

"I have here a resolution," said Mr. King, "which was suggested by a portion of Mr. Hemphill's inaugural. I will read it."

Mr. King read the paper. It was:
Whereas, His honor, the mayor, in his inaugural address, suggests that steps should be taken looking to the opening of negotiations for the annexation of West End to Atlanta; and Whereas, Such annexation would be for the benefit not only of Atlanta, but of West End; and Whereas, There are many reasons why West End should become a part of Atlanta;
Therefore, be it resolved, That his honor, the mayor, be, and he hereby is, authorized to appoint a committee of three members from the city council, and three from the citizens of Atlanta, which committee of six shall have authority to confer with a committee appointed from West.

council, and three from the citizens or Atlanta, which committee of six shall have authority to confer with a committee appointed from West End to consider the question of annexation, and to agree, if possible, upon terms,

Resolved further, That the council of West End be requested to take a similar step, and that the committees thus appointed be requested to meet at such time and place as may be agreed upon by their respective chairmen.

Resolved further, That the committee so appointed shall have no power to bind the city, but that its action shall be reported back to the council for approval or rejection.

The resolution was listened to with increased attention as it was unfolded, and was adopted by a unanimous vote.

Beer Licenses.

The police committee. Mr. King chairman, presented the petition of J. E. Hudgins for a retail beer license at 326 Decatur street. On the petition the committee made a favorable report.

"I move to disagree to that report," said Mr. Hendrix. It is too far out. Only a short time ago a man was killed there."

Mr. Hulsey thought it as good a place as any in that end of town for a saloon.

"We made every inquiry out there," said Mr. King, "and no one opposed it."

"Isut we are down there and know," said Mr. Hendrix.

Mr. Woodward spoke in support of the commit-The report was disagreed to, and further action upon the paper was indefinitely postponed.

A similar report was made upon W. T. K. Smith's petition for a beer license at 482 Marietta street.

Mr. Hendrix opposed it, and a result similar to that on the Hudgins paper was obtained.

Only One Janitor. Mr. Shropshire introduced a resolution doing away with one of the janitors.

This led to a lengthy discussion as to whether the one serving in the mayor's office or the one in the council chamber should be retained.

The resolution was referred to the committee on public buildings and grounds.

In Regular Order.

Mr. Hutchison presented an ordinance touching the order of work as passed upto the order of work as passed upto the order of work as passed upto the order of work shall be done in the order in which the same is passed up-all work order in which the same is passed up-all work ordered at the same meeting to be of equal rank-unless otherwise provided when passed up; provided that his honor, the mayor, shall have authority in his discretion in any emergency to change or modify the order as to the execution of such work. SAVANNAH POLITICS.

TWO CANDIDATES OUT FOR THE

Charges of Fraud in the Registration-Renation Among the Candidates.

The Outlook.

SAVANNAH, Ga., January 19.-[Special.]-Tomorrow will be devoted to politics. The announcement yesterday morning that Alderman John J. McDonough was a candidate for mayor, in opposition to Mayor John Schwarz, was a tremendous surprise Really there is nothing similar and recent to compare it with, Today the politicians were as active as swarming bees. Mayor Schwart, was taken by surprise. The first he knew Mayor Schwartz opposition was when some friends woke him up at 2 o'clock yesterday morning to tell him that a new ticket had been nominated. He is an early riser by habit, and he did not oversl self after that news. All yesterday his friends flocked to him.

Mr. McDonough's friends made hay, too, and stacks of it. As this is a holiday both sides got in effective work for their respective tickets, which are:

For Mayor-John Schwarz. For Aldermen-R. F. Harmon, James Mc-Guire, Dr. L. A. Falligant, George N. Nichols, J. A. G. Carson, George Mills, Herman Myers, Dr. R. B. Harris, George Meyer, W. I. O'Brien, William F. Reed, George S

For Mayor-J. J. McDonough. For Aldermen—R. F. Harmon, George S. Haines, W. P. Bailey, W. F. Reed, P. W. Meldrim, Dr. Thomas, George J. Mills, Herman Myers, W. G. Cann, R. B. Harris, S.

P. Hamilton, James McGuire. Mayor Schwarz has left off three of his old board-Messrs. McDonough, Cann and Bailey -and has substituted Messrs. George Meyer, William J. O'Brien and James McGuire. Of course, Mr. McDonough had to be left off. Mr. Cann and Mr. Bailey are on the McDonough ticket, and their friends are making rattling fight for them. These young mem council have made a splen Mr. McDonough has eight of the old board on his ticket, and has added Messrs. Hamilton and Thomas, former aldermen, Mr. Peter Meldrim and Mr. James McGuire. Very few straight tickets will be voted. The cutting will be terrific and the voted. The cutting will be terrine and the counting will be slow.

Mayor Schwartz is angry today. He says he is wounded at the breach of faith that the nomination of Alderman J. J. McDonough for mayor indicates. All along, he says, it has been generally accepted as a fact that Mr. McDonough and all of the other members of the old board would stand with him.

Alderman McDonough denies any breach of faith with Mayor Schwarz. He says: "The treachery of Mayor Schwarz and his "The treachery of Mayor Schwarz and his friends in not opposing the movement to scratch my name, and that of some of my friends entirely released me from any obligation, if any existed, to stand with the mayor and the old board. I did say that I did not expect to run for mayor and would consent to be a candidate for alderman, but I did not propose to be sacrificed in order that certain men in this city should get an influence in the board of aldermen, which they could not exercise through me and these could not exercise through me and these

Some charge that the registration in the third district is illegal, as Mr. Simon Gazan, one of the registrars is not a freeholder. Another sensation came out today in the charge that heavy frauds have been committed charge that heavy frauds have been committed in the registration. It is charged that a number of men were registered while absent from the city/contrary to law, and it is further stated that many names were added to the books yesterday. Of course those added yesterday do not appear in the published list today. If these changes be true, and they are being investigated, the election can be questioned. It follows that the charges are serious reflections on the board of registration.

Mayor Schwarz said that he had heard the reports, and one informant told him that a large number of names were put on the books yesterday. Alderman George S. Haines was requested to investigate these charges. Al-derman McDonoigh's friends say that if any fraud has been committed they know nothing of it.

It is the settled policy of the state to give to every boy and girl within her limits a solid, practical English education. To this end, I invoke from you the same valuable aid and co-operation which you extended to my distinguished predecessor, Hon. James S. Hook.

Profoundly impressed with the great responsibilities of the position to which I have been called, and actuated by an earnest desire to promote, in every way possible, the diffusion of education among the masses, I ask the help of every school officer in Georgia. True Sympathy.

When one is afflicted with any form of blood disease, he certainly appreciates true sympathy. It should be remembered, however, that true sympathy does not consist in saying, "I am sorry for you," but the sympathy must be shown in a material way. Either get or recommend a remedy that will cure. This is true sympathy. When the fair skin is disfigured by blotches and the complexion blemished by pimples, when unyielding sores, boils and carbuncles break out on the person, when the blood impurities impair the digestive functions, when the urinary organs show signs of decay, when the lungs grow weak and the whole system feels achy and feeble, when the appetite fails, when life feels a burden and existence painful, then will it be true sympathy to recommend to the sufferer a use of Dr. John Bull's Sarsaparilla, for just so sure as daylight follows darkness, will this remedy rid him of his afflictions and restore him to sound, robust, enjoyable health.—Manchester News.

ATLANTA, GA., JANUARY 20, 1891.

A Business-Like Beginning. Atlanta's new municipal administration has begun business in a manner which will at once commend it to the public as one admirably suited to the demands of the occa-

The new council held its first regular meeting yesterday and transacted much important business, the most notable features of which are the appropriations for the new Forsyth street bridge, for the repair of the Broad street bridge and for the completion of the two main sewers of the city. Another very important action was that authorizing the appointment of a committee to confer with a similar committee from West End concerning the annexation of the latter, and to agree upon terms, if possible.

The new council has taken hold in earnest and promises an administration which will mark a notable era in the development of the city.

The progressive spirit that characterized Mayor Hemphill's inaugural finds a hearty response from the council, and in so promptly acting on the most important suggestions of the mayor's message, it gives gratifying evidence of a determination to meet every public question with a spirit of enterprise and progress.

A Great Anniversary.

For the first time in our history the anniversary of the birth of Robert E. Lee was generally observed yesterday, in Georgia, as a legal holiday.

The action of the banks and the state and municipal offices, in closing for the day, was eminently proper, and the recognition of the anniversary by the postoffice was very gratifying, as it was in effect the semi-official act of the national government.

In this city the programme for the occasion was arranged by the Virginia Society. and the eloquent speech of Captain Gordon McCabe, with the elegant banquet at the Kimball, will long be remembered among the events of the year.

This great anniversary will lose none of its significance as the years foll on. Every southern state will follow the example of Georgia, and make the legal holiday. Lee was a typical American, as well as a typical southerner. His greatness was not bounded by state lines, nor hedged in by geographical limits. All his life long he was a Christian gentlemen, a model citizen and the greatest soldier of his time. There was never a more unselfish patriot, and none ever wielded a sword more stainless, or left behind him a more splendid name.

The annual tribute of our people to the hero of the lost cause is no glorification of the southern confederacy, and it is in no sense disloyal. It is a graceful and touching recognition of the loftiest character and the noblest type of manhood that represented the south in the shock and storm of our civil war.

Let Lee's birthday stand by the side of Washington's. Both were Virginians of illustrious lineage. Both drew their swords for the cause of home rule. Both will rank in history as the two greatest Americans. It is fitting that the day should be the south's greatest anniversary.

"Strictly Moderate."

One of the most interesting paragraphs we have seen in a long time occurs in the market reports of an esteemed commercia contemporary. It is as follows:

Transactions in jute bagging during the weel under review have been strictly moderate. Quo tations tonight are 5 cents for one and one-half pounds, 5% cents for one and three-fourths pounds, 6 cents for two pounds, and 6% cents for standard grades. There has been a limited call for jute butts, on the basis of 1.15 cents for paper grades and 134 cents for bagging quality. Rightly viewed, this paragraph is truly eloquent. Back of it is a good deal of history and considerable humor, and if the humor is considered, the history is very broad and instructive. It covers, in fact, the beginning and the end of the effort of the jute bagging trust to swindle the cotton planters of the south. When the farmers. by means of the alliance organization, began their fight on jute bagging the trust was in the hey-day of its youth, demanding and receiving 131 cents for the two-pound grade, and for other grades in proportion. For one season, the trust had the farmers at its mercy, and then the alliance closed down on it with a vigor and an energy that have never been for a moment abated.

The swindling operations of the trust were successful the first season, but if the greedy capitalists composing it had had a foresight equal to their situation they would have been glad to pour their ill-gotten gains back into the jug. For it is certain that the manufacturers of jute bagging will lose many dollars for every dollar they managed to squeeze out of the cotton producers of the south a year ago. They would be glad to have matters back where they were before they entered into their contest with the alliance. But this is one of the cases where greed, like ambition, has overleaped itself and broken its neck on the other side.

"The demand for jute bagging," says our semed commercial exchange, "is strictly oderate," and that cautious statement tells the whole story. The thickest skinned member of the abolished jute trust will not only admit that the Farmers' Alliance has claws, but will be willing for a trifling gift to expose his scars. Nothing but their aggravated modesty prevents the able member from appearing in a dime museum as the eformed victims of untimely greed.

The Constitution's Presses

Our esteemed contemporary, The Augusts Evening News, commenting on the fact that 'another press has been ordered" by our evening contemporary, says: "Each press runs off 24,000 four-page papers an hour. This is something that no other southern paper can boast of."

This is all very pleasant, but we would suggest that the editor of The Evening News would be interested by dropping into THE CONSTITUTION'S press room at any time during one of his frequent visits to Atlanta. There he will find, side by side, the two handsomest perfecting presses in the southern states, each printing 30,000 fourpage papers per hour, or turning out eight, twelve or sixteen pages, cutting, folding, pasting and counting them, with as much ease as they handle a four-page folio.

THE CONSTITUTION'S two presses are of the handsomest American workmanship, and the combined cost of the two is more than that of any other four presses in operation within the limits of the state of Georgia. However, it is none the less gratifying to observe the progress of others.

The Southern Press.

The Savannah Times has a grievance against "many southern newspapers." In a recent issue our contemporary says that a halt should be called in their methods of advertising the west and the business attractions of northern cities, as "the south can offer tenfold as many advantages as any other section of the country." temporary further charges these "many southern papers" with the sin of enticing our young men to other parts of the country by telling of the chances they furnish for self-advancement.

If any southern papers are engaged in this business they are doing the south an injustice. But we have failed to find such papers as The Times refers to among our southern exchanges. The southern press is working harmoniously for southern interests; the dailies and the weeklies are talking up the south and doing their best to induce immigration. There is not a dissenting voice among democratic newspapers.

THE CONSTITUTION has been forward in this work of advertising the south, and it is glad to see that its work is being supplemented by that of other influential newspa pers and is bearing present fruit. This wholesale arraignment of southern newspapers is wrong. They are not working against he south, but for it; and their work has already had an effect which has resulted in vigorous protests from the north and west. If, however, The Times can name a south ern newspaper which is working in the interest of the north and west as against the demnation and "read it out of the party." Some of the politicians claim that as the Indians are men of color they have a right to vote. The Indians, however, think the bullet is more powerful than the ballot.

The claim was for clothing and effects lost when the Armstrong was burned to keep her from falling into the enemy's hands. That heroic battle of Captain Reed detained the British war ships, which were carrying aid to General Packenham's army, of Louisiana, and enabled General Jackson to collect the army which won the great victory of January 8, 1815. Our generous, nobic government, after an investigation of nearly eight years, found that it owed the widow of the poor "powder monkey," who fought at Fayal, $121, and paid it like a man! The death of John W. Root removes from the midst of us the figure pre-eminently conspicuous among the youg men of Chicago; in it we all rec-ognize a grievous, irremediable public calamity. Thorough intelligence characterized every performance of his. Splendid monuments to his professional skill confront us on every side in Chicago, and in every part of our country where architecture is known his name is known, too, his services are appreciated, his death is deplored and his memory will be reverenced.

His relations with his fellow men were always of the most cordial nature. He was essentially a social and a winsome man. His conversational powers were extraordinary; theresoemed to be no subject which he had not investigated and in which he was not profoundly learned. Art, literature, history, politics, the sciences, philosophy—these things had been exhausted in his studies, and to the discussion of them and kindred topics he brought in charming reinforcement an immense fund of anecdote and an inexhaustible treasury of wit, conveyed always in the choicest of idiom. His humor was at all times refreshingly cordial, marked by exceptional delicacy; he was a man of deep feeling and he was easily moved; he was keenly sensible to the influences of pathos and of mirth alike. He was devotedly fond of music; making no pretention to excellence either as a composer or a performer, the delicacy, the refinement, the discrimination and the power of his execution served to delight all who heard him at the prano, and the feeling of the composition with which he beguiled the moments of leisure are convincing proofs of the nicety, the unction, the ferror and the feeling of the composition with which he came in contact, his relations with all were tempered with singular modesty, thoughtfulness and benevolence. He was charitable, kindly, liberal; now that his strong brain and warm hands are at rest, the stately edifices that bear witness to his genius bespeak for him our reverential regard far less potentity than does the memory of the brave, generous personality that shall gladden us no more on earth.

THE RAILWAY WORLD.

COLONEL STAHLMAN IN A NEW ROLE,

Which He Refuses to Talk About-Shake-up on the Louisville Southern-A Change Here in Atlanta-General News.

A Nashville correspondent of The Chattanooga Times interviewed Colonel E. B. Stahl-man the other day upon his rumored embarkation in the banking business. The colonel asked to be excused from talking about the subject, but the general impression in that city is that he will soon abandon the railway field for the business of deposit and discount. The colonel cannot state definitely whether he will be able to follow out his long cherished idea of a trip to Europe, but he will surely do so if his business affairs admit of it.

Many people think, however, that he will not remain disconnected from the railroad world for any great length of time, as the business has too many fascinations for him, and, besides, is one for which his wonderful ability eminently fits him.

The long-looked-for shake-up has taken place on the Louisville Southern road. The neadquarters of the road go to Cincinnati Febmary 1st. and on that date the following official will, so says The Courier-Journal, discontinue their connection with it: Mr. James J. Farnsworth, associate general assenger agent, and but recently appointed to that position by Colonel Wrenn. The East Tennessee people will take care of Mr. Farnsworth. The entire auditor's office, including Auditor Ford, is let out, but it is said that Mr. Ford can be assistant auditor of the Queen Crescent at Cincinnati if he desires. It is said, however, that he prefers to remain in Louisville. Miles Turpin, the general agent at Atlanta; G. F. Moore, traveling auditor and freight agent, will also go, and while it has not been so stated specifically, it is thought that Mr. Bishop Clay, general agent at Lexington, will also be on the list. General Manager Woodard will in all probability sever his connection with the Southern, in which event Major John F. O'Brien will take up his duties. A large number of clerks are also "on the list" for removal.

Those who are to be retained are Mr. A. V. Lafayette, at present general freight agent; John Menzies, contracting freight agent; Americus Whedon, city passenger and ticket agent.

The Courier-Journal further says: The shake-up in the offices was caused by the lease of the Queen and Crescent to the East Tenof the Queen and Crescent to the East Ten-nessee. It was entirely unnecessary to have two distinct sets of officers for the Queen and Crescent and the Southern, and the decision of the lessee was that the Queen and Crescent should manage affairs in the north while the East Tennessee would look after the southern end of the consolidation. The authority of Traffic Manager Miller, of the Queen and Cres-cent will consequently it is said be extended cent, will consequently, it is said, be extended over the Louisville Southern, February 1st, when Major O'Brien will be placed in direct charge of the operative department. Mr. Men-zies will look after soliciting freight, while, in all likelihood, Mr. Lafayette will be retained in charge of the freight department with the title of division freight agent. Captain Whedon, it is said, will be placed in charge of the passenger traffic of the Southern, his title eing made passenger and ticket agent. It is said that at once the lessee will, i n with the Queen and Crescent lish a through service better than ever between Louisville and the southern ports, paying especial attention to saving all the time possible in transportation.

The Savannah, Americus and Montgomer road has opened a general eastern agency in New York city, with Mr. Carrol H. Smith in charge with the title of general eastern agent. Mr. Arthur Sinclair, Jr., has been appointed contracting freight agent with headquarters in the same office. Mr. J.C. From the general balance sheet, as of date of December 31, 1890, submitted by Secretary Tatum of the trustees of the Cincinnati railroad, the fol of the trustees of the Cincinnati railroad, the following interesting figures are taken: The trustees have paid for construction, $13,465,101.09, and for maintenance of way, $1,553,393.59—a total of $20,119,39.08. Their receipts on account of bonds were $18,300,000, and from the Cincinnati Southern Railway Company and its successor, the Cincinnati Railroad Company. The rentals for the railway under the existing lease, though heavy, do not fully cover the interest on the bonds, which range at as high a rate as 73-10 per annum on the first $10,000,000, but will do so and leave much to spare when, in 1902 or sooner, the bonds can be refunded at lower rates. Quite a number of gentlemen were tioned in connection with the position, by the

His Long Service. Mr. Campbell came to Atlanta with Mr.

John Lovett, twenty years ago. Both came from Virginia, and a warm personal friendship existed between them. In 1883 Mr. Campbell was transferred to Texarkana, where he remained for the seven years since his removal. He is a gentleman of fine business qualifications, and during his long term of ser-vice he has given such satisfaction that promotion has followed as a natural consequence of his energy and fidelity in the performance of every duty connected with the snice. He is about fifty years of age, and the greater part of his life has been spent in the service of the Southern Express Company.

The affairs of the central division could not be in better hands than those of Mr. Campbell, whose long experience has made him familiar with all the details of the extensive business of this great corporation.

the role which Mr. Downing has being one of great strenght. It is of the strong, virile type of which Downing is the leading representative upon the stage today. Selim is in some respects a mor forceful character than the Gladiator or Ingoman It calls for suppressed rather than strongly ex-pressed emotions, and Mr. Downing carries this idea faithfully through his characterization of the role. Artistically his Selim will rank as one of Mr. Downing's best efforts. It seems to suit him thoroughly and certainly calls for praise. Miss Blair made the most of the rather thankles role. She was beautiful, of course, and some of her gowns, as were the costumes of Selim, were gorgeous in the extreme.

The supporting company is a very good one.
Mr. Holt does notably good work, as do Miss

A charming bit of comedy, "French Marriage," closed the night's entertainment. In it Mr. Downing, Miss Blair and Mr. Holt do some pretty

Tonight "The Gladiator" will doubtless draw a big audience.

Hearing Yesterday.

OF THE M. AND N. GA. The Application for a Permanent Receives

Mr. John B. Glover, of Marietta, was yesterday appointed temporary receiver of the Marietta and North Georgia railroad by Judge Newman, of the United States circuit court, The appointment is an eminently fitting one, as Mr. Glover is and has been since its construction superintendent of the road, and therefore thoroughly posted on its condition and resources. That he will give complete satisfaction in the position is doubted by no one. At the hearing yesterday Mr. H. B. Tompkins appeared for the Central Trust Company, who filed the petition asking for a receiver; Hon. A. S. Clay, of Marietta, for the railroad while the bondholders were represented by Judge Adams, of Savannah; Mr. Hoke Smith. Mr. Alex King and Mr. Jack J. Spalding.

After a half hour's desultory talk among the counsel, in which it was agreed not to re sist the appointment of a temporary receiver, Mr. Glover was appointed. Mr. Glover is restrained from paying any of the road's debts, save the absolutely nece current expenses, and holds the position pending the hearing of an application for permaent receiver and special master, which is set for January 31st.

His bond was at first fixed at $10,000, but upon request of bondholders' counsel, it was increased to $20,000. It will be filed with the cierk of the court today for approval. This road comes under the jurisdiction of three United States districts—the northern district of Georgia, northern district of North Carolina, and the eastern district of Tennesses. Ancillary bills had been filed in thos courts simultaneously with the application in Judge Newman's court, and in those district the judges, in answer, will concur in Mr.

Glover's appointment. From all indications the stock and bondhold ers will oppose the application for a permanent receiver. They consented to the temporary appointment so as to prevent any minor litigaion arising.

This case promises some interesting developments, and a strong fight is looked for when the question of a permanent receiver comes up, as there are numerous creditors of the road in Tennessee, North Carolina and Georgia who hold that they have claims which demand as much consideration as the Central Trust

"No contract for the drainage of the swamp into the St. Mary's river has been contemplated—mach less can it be said that it will soon be made.

"The company hopes that the property will prove very valuable, but this can only be demonstrated by the expenditure of one or more million of dollars, and, therefore, the correct determination of this question may be said to be in the remote future. Capitalists generally regard swamp property with suspicion, and it was only with the greatest difficulty that I induced my associates to make the last payment of $38.101.80 to the state of Georgia. I have perfect confidence in the future of the enterprise, if I have the support of the people of Georgia and of northern capitalists. "Unfortunately the people residing in the section where the swamp is, regard undertaking to drain it entirely imprasticable, and confidently expect that, if drained, is will be found a bed of poor white sand. The state, however, has received its 26½ cents per acts, which the Suwame Canal Company will lose if the enterprise is unsuccessful. IN HONOR OF LEE.

HIS BIRTHDAY APPROPRIATELY OBSERVED IN ATLANTA.

Captain McCabe's Oration at the Capitol. How the Day Was Spent-The Banquet Last Night.

The 19th of January. For the second time in the history of Georgia, Lee's birthday was observed as a legal holiday. The courts, and all the municipal, county and state offices were closed.

Captain McCabe was introduced by the president of the society. Mr. Hamilton Douglass in a ringing talk.

Ladies and gentlemen, said Mr. Douglass, we are met tonight as Georgians, with open hearts or all, to honor the confederate veterans and their immortal chieftain, Lee. We love our common country. As Georgians, the glory of the great republic is as much ours as any state's. No other section has contributed as nuch to her grandeur as these southern states. Blot out from that noble epic, which is the history of the American revolution, the patriotic heroism of the rebel Washington, and she had been strangled in her birth. Erase from constitution and statute book the moulding influence of Jefferson, Madison, and Marshall, and she had perished in her infancy. Had her ears been closed to the cloquence of our Calhouns and Clays they had been opened to obey the edicts of im-perial despotism. Undo the work of the Sage of ticello, and there had been set, as a watch lower, a foreign customhouse along the banks of her Mississippi. Burn up as a scroll the record of Monterey, Buena Vista and Chapultepec, and you lop off from her ample domain the golden shores of the Pacific. In the play of that divine law of evolution es as her servants both the revolution of '76, and the secession of '61, and which is destined to produce in the American citizen, in his social, civil and political rights, an ideal type of manhood for the twentieth century, the tential force of southern manhood is beyond uman ken. Therefore, by right of good tit love our country, our whole country, these United states, which had not been created but through the genius, heroism and statesmanship of our southern patriots. We love our beautiful flag, on whose azure folds new stars of untold magnitude are sweeping into view. We believe that, in 1861, on, however inexpedient, was constitu ional, but that now, under the constitution, it has been irrevocably put at rest. On all sides, those not willfully blind, can see that north and south are naterial prosperity and by the glories of a grand estiny. [Applause.]

We Georgians are "back in the house of our thiers," and there "we will remain forever." for are there as equals, proudly challenging a caner and more honorable title to the rights and tivileges of indestructible stateship. As such, asy the day never come when Georgia's sons and sughters rail to honor the convictions and halwes the memories of those illustrions parties.

pirileges of indestructible stateship. As such, may the day never come when Georgia's sons and daughters fail to honor the convictions and hallow the memosies of those illustrions patriots—our fathers and brothers—who in the sixties ungrudgingly sacrificed their firesides and life itself in honorable devotion to duty and right.

Among all the souls struck out by the white heat of the terrible struggle between the states, none equals that of the Virginia patriot. Lee. And this gathering in Georgia's capital on his birthday, first made a holiday at Georgia's command, means that in Georgia his name and life purpose are equally sacred, honored and revered with those of Washington. So long as this day remains a holiday, it signifies that the confederate veteran, from private to general, is as dear to Georgia's heart as are har old red hills and sunny skies; that so long long as a grey-headed one of them remains, we will honor the heroism of his enlistment and the fortitude of his service, and cheer his declining days with recollections of his glorious past. And when their last loiterer shall have pitched his tent "on fame's eternal camping ground," may his posterity forever gather in these halls, in the fuller and more truthful light, that will then come, of the history that they made, to honor their memories and forever defend the cause for which they fought. [Applause.]

While all of us are here as Georgians, some are here with sweet and tender recollections of old Virginia:

"Land of brown heath and shaggy wood, Land of the mountain and the filod, Land of my sires! What mortal hand Can e'er untie the filial band,

That knits us to thy rugged strand?"

We have with us tonight one of her noblest sons, distinguished slike in war and peace, whose burning words will kindle anew in our hearts our love for the confederate veteran and his immortal hero, Lee. By all the devoted heroism of his native state, illustrated on a hundred battlefields, by every debt of gratitude owing to his hospitable people, in the name of Geor

Captain McCabe. The cheering was prolonged as the knightly Virginian, the orator of the day, faced his audience.

Audience.
Virginians, said he, I bear to you the greetings of our mother as you gather here to do honor to the memory of her greatest son. [Applause.]
And to you, too, men and women of Georgia, this mother on whose boson lie sleeping so many of your best, bravest—those dauntless spirits, who, when she stood tinged with fire, hedged her round with stubborn steel and with their brave Young blood wrote the round of "Georgia" afresh young blood wrote the name of "Georgia" afresh in the very rubric of freedom—to you, too, this mother stretches forth her hand, which no longer wears its mailed glove, bids you God speed in that grand career of prosperity, which has made the name of this mighty commonwealth no less renowned in days of peace than in days of war, when she gave her all without grudge, without that in defense of those principles, which since the days of Runnymeate have been the common stritage of all English-speaking folk. [Prolonged applause]. I have brought no tricks of rhetorious smoothly sawing periods, but the simple tutth which is greater glory than any panegyric. The story is that of the defense of Petersburg. He reviewed briefly the thirty days' fighting—Wilderness, Cold Harbor and otherachievements—in which Lee, wich 50,000 men, had vastly more than held his own against 141,000. The tide of conquest, sweeping south and west to meet the tide of western victory, had been broken and hurled back by the slender adamantine barrier of Lee's front. He showed the folly of the claim that the struggle was hopeless—that there was hope until continued Western reverses occurred.

The speaker gave a thrilling narrative of the defense of Petersburg. Day after day, the shifting scenes were portrayed in graphic and eloquent words. The description of "The Crater" was magnificent. His tribute to the bravery of the two federal of resolve "and who indonwith the blead in and resolve," and who, "along with the blood, in-herited the spirit and the virtues of the old cham-pions of freedom."

Above all, it is a duty which we owe those dauntless spirits, who at the bidding of Virginia and her southern sisters went forth to battle in all the joyous valor of their youth and stern resolve of sober manhood, counting their lives a worth-less thing.

In such measure as we honor the memory of these men—in such measure as we suffer no breath of coloquy to pass unchallenged, touching the right-constess of the cause for which they died—so shall be measured to us the respect of those who, hereafter, shall read the story of that unequal struggle with eyes unclouded of prejudice and passion.

"Peace has come! God give His blessing On the fact and on the name!
The South speaks no invective.

The South speaks no invective, And she writes no word of blame, But we call all men to witness That we stand up without shame. "Nay, send it forth to all the world With love for living comrades, And with praise for those who died-

"God and our consciences alone Give measure of right and wrong-The race may fall unto the swift, And the battle to the strong. • But the truth shall shine in history And blossom into song."

In yonder battle-crowned capital of our ancient commonwealth looks down upon us in imperishable bronze "the counterfeit presentment" of Vir ginia's greatest son of the first revolution-seated in easy majesty on his nettled steed, such as he may have seemed to his ragged, expectant solmay have seemed to his ragged, expectant sol-diery as he scanned, with serene constancy, the shifting chances of the fray at Monmouth Princeton—while grouped beneath him stand the heroic figures of those great Virginians who shared with him the peril and the glory of guiding the new nation out of the dark and narrow bonds age of royal tyranny into the broad light of re

"Rebel" he was to those who denied the char-tered liberties of his countrymen, but today, under every sua and in every clime, the name of this "rebel" is to all freemen the synonym of constitu-tional liberty. Yet, had not success been his, Washington were none the less a patriot and a channion of freedom.

Washington were none the less a patriot and a champion of freedom.

Thus it is that Virginia, true to the ennobling traditions of that mighty past, which teach us that patriotism is patriotism, that principle is principle, whether glorified by victory or shrouded in deleat, has reared a monument no less impressive and enduring to her greatest son of our second revolution—the peer in military genius, in patriotism, in constancy and valor of that immortal "rebel" who, with his good blade, carved out the freedom of the western world.

"And here and now, my countrymen, With that great 'rebel' down the years— Twin 'rebels,' side by side— And, confronting such a vision, All our grief gives place to pride."

"Those two shall ride immortal— And shall ride abreast of Time, Shall light up stately History, And blaze in Epic rhyme— Both patriots, both Virginians true— Both 'rebels,' both sublime!''

The Banquet at the Kimball. The banquet at the Kimball house, at the lose of the speech making at the capitol, was most brilliant affair, and under the direction

f President Hamilton Douglass, fittingly ended a most memorable occasion. About fifty guests were standing in their places when, at 10:50 o'clock, the Rev. Dr. Jones, Stonewall Jackson's venerable chaplain, invoked the grace of the Almighty God upon the bountiful repast set before them. The dinner was of the usual full-course order with wines, while the appearance of the table from end to end was tastefully relieved by delicate potted plants.

At the head sat President Douglass—

It was 12:10 o'clock a. m., when the venerable Chaplain Jones, the toastmaster, arose, and in a short and witty speech introduced Captain McCabe, "who has brought us the truth of history clothed in the choicest flowers of rhetoric.

The orator of the evening was greeted with uproarious applause when he arose.

"I am truly grateful," said he to you gallant sons of the Empire State of the south for the honor bestowed upon me. I know there is one who, but for the claim of death, would have welcomed me here tonight; one who, though he was not a so dier, was proud of the fact that he was a soldier's son. I violate no countdence when I relate that in a conversation with ex-Presi-a soldier's son. I violate no conidence when I relate that in a conversation with ex-President Cleveland the latter referred to his death as a national calamity. Henry Grady is the man I speak of." [Uproarious applause.]

Captain McCabe's short speech was a brilliant one and brought forth great applause.
"The two states," said Governor Northen, in responding to the teast "Georgia and Virginia," "in all the past have been as one. They fought shoulder to shoulder, shared the fruits of victory, suffered disaster in company and accepted defeat alike.
"God inade Lee the lover of right and of human liberty. We reverence his name for his purity of life and for the patriotism that made him consecrate his being to the good of his fellows." The governor was in spiendd voice and his very short speech was an elegant one, and received great applause.

Dr. J. William Jones responded to the toast, "The Men Who Followed Lee." His speech abbunded with sallies of wit, humorous sayings and anecdotes, and his inspired eloquence was frequently interrupted by applause. General John B. Gordon had been originally assigned to the foregoing toast, but was unavoidably absent.

Attanta—the home of our adoption, the city of our love. We congratulate her that a soldier of Lee heads the column as she keeps step to the march of progress.

In response to the toast Mayor Hemphill said:

Mr. Chairman and tientlemen: There are three names that I specially love and honor—two I learned to love when I was a loy, the other when I had arrived at maturer years.

Those three names haves charm and poetry to me almost equal to the three that are so often quoted—mether, home and heaven. This memorial day has brought the amme prominently income that sools and the three colors.

Never will I forget when as a young soldier of the confederacy, I met for the first time in the mountains of northwest Virginia, that patriot, that skilled general, the great and immortal
Robert E. Lee.

It was a benediction to have his fatherly smile resting upon us. We soldiers loved and trusted him implicitly, and we never went into an engagement but what we confidently expected to win it under Lee's skilled and familiess leadership.

Virginia, the mother of presidents, and the land of patriots; four long years I was a soldier in her borders; I became acquainted with and knew her people in a time when men's souls were tried.
Her citizens became as dear to me as those of my own native Georgia. When I saw their patience, their courage, their patriotism, their hospitality, their splendid resources—no other state in the confederacy could have sustained the great armies that she had to provide for from Manassas to Appomatox—when I saw this, my heart and all with, me went out in admiration and affection for this great state and noble people, and the long years that have intervened have not diminished a particle of that love and admiration—it rather increases as the years go by.

of this universe, who directs all things wisely and well, does not despise the sacrifice that was made

COLUMBUS, Ga., January 19.—[Special.]—According to the request of the board of trustees, cording to the request of the board of trustees, memorial exercises were held today in every room in the white public schools of this city in commemoration of General Lee's birthday.

A well selected programme was carried out, which was greatly enjoyed by numerous visitors, who filled the different schools. The birth and boyhood of Lee, his educational advantage, his marriage, family, his record as a soldier in the United States army, and the confederate army, the history of the late war, as to its cau-es, and his retirement from the army and his teachings, were some of the many interesting points brought out in the different rooms.

The blackboards were adorned with handsome portraits of Lee, also confederate flags and many other drawings appropriate to the occasion, all the work of the pupils.

Several beautiful and appropriate songs, some composed especially for the occasion, were rendered in the style by the classes. The exercises were in every respect, a grand success, worthy the noble general which they commemorated. In the boy's high school the following special programme was rendered:

The Floyd Rifles, in addition to the street parade, had a target practice. A larger number of soldiers were out than in many years past. Flags floated from numerous stores and prominent buildings. Many pictures of Lee were seen in the store windows and public places, crowned and wreathed with beautiful flowers. The public schools and colleges suspended exercises in celebration of the natal day of the south's great chieftam, and the pupils were told by the teachers of the life and heroic services of Lee, and it was impressed upon them why his memory should live in the heart of every southern child. Dr. Kendall in Athens.

The Banner says of Dr. Kendall's first sermor The Banner says of Dr. Kendall's first sermon in Athens:

We never heard a better discourse than that delivered by the pastor of the First Methodist Episcopal church on Sunday last. This was Dr. Kendall's first appearance in our city, and he certainly captured the hearts of the Athenians. His voice is musical and clear, and can be distinctly heard in every part of the building. Our new pastor preaches short sermons—less than three-quarters of an hour—but in this space of time he analyzes his subject thoroughly, and his language is so plain and beautiful, and his illustrations so impply made, that his congregation sits enraptured from the opening to the close. We predict that great good will result from Dr. Kendall's appointment to our city.

The Ledger, commenting on the same subject, says:

Dr. Kendall's diction is perfect, and his imagery very fine. His talents as a word painter are of the highest order, and throughout his entire sermon there glowed and burned the fire of a deep and chastened devotion to his master.

Later there crop ext mate was over the market. Later there was a partial recovery. The early estimate of port receipts was below those for the corresponding date last season, and Liverpool made some show of stiength. Such, however, is the susceptibility of the market to the slightest influence, that it weakened a little in the closing half hour, when the crop movement for the day proved to be little in excess of estimates. A feature of the market was the comparatively large dealings in more distant options, August taking the lead. Spot cotton was 1-lee lower, and dull.

THE NEW YORK STOCK MARKET. The Day on the Floor of the New York Stock Exchange.

NEW YORK, January 19.—The stock market today has been narrow and, during a greater portion of the lime and for a great majority of the stocks, dul, the disposition evidently being to await the outcome of the financial legislation at Washington. This, of itself has been sufficient to interrupt the upward movement of the first two weeks of the year, and other minor matters seem to work, at present, in harmony with the cause. Today there was a heavy bank failure in the west, which immediately checked an upward movement in progress at the time, showing conclusively the sensitive temper of the market at present. One of the most influential events today was the exposure of a forged agreement put in circulation to prove that the New Haven railroad had made terms for the control of the New England road and which was supposed to have been the foundation for the late material rise in the latter's stock. The bull movement in it was not only stopped short, but a drop of 5½ per cent was made in it from the final price of Saturday. The supporters of the bull movement came to the aid of the stock, but only a portion of the loss was regained, even at the best figures of the day, and a material decline is shown by the final prices. Industrials were a quiet feature during the day, and while Laclede Gas and Chicago Gas were specially strong. Sugar begins to show evidence of the selling of long stock, and was weak throughout. Outside of the stocks mentioned there was little animation, except in Villards, which were firm, and St. Paul, which was inclined to have were secored in the firm amay of the leaders up about 1 per action of the remainder of the day, though there were feeble raily in the last hour. The close, however, checked the buying, and a slow setting away of quotations marked the transactions during most of the remainder of the day, though there was a starter beavy, and generally at a small fractional decline from Saturday's figures. The sales of the day amounted to: Listed, 187,000 shares; unlisted, 21,000 shares.

NEW YORK, January 19.—London prices were all better this morning, and the market showed considerable strength. There was no marked activity in the trading, and, in our opinion, the strength in the of the duliness is rather encouraging. The feature during the opening was heavy trading and a sharp de during the opening was heavy trading and a sharp decline in New England on the discovery that the recent buil movement in it was due to bogus information made public in connection with documents which were forged and untrustworthy, and the disappointment consequent upon this discovery led to a liberal unloading of the lambs. We are inclined to think that the buying was better than the selling. There was no development of interest, but it looks to us as though outside interest was on the increase and as though the public would soon become a far more important feature in the market. We are inclined to look for better things before the end of the week and a gradually higher range of prices.

NEW YORK, January 19.—[Special.]—The Liverpool spot market is feeling the lessening demand from Manchester spinners who, being unable to dispose of their cloths and well supplied with cotton, are withdrawing their orders to buy at present limits given last week. Receipts are full at the ports, and the continued movement at Memphis, Augusta and St. Louis is largely in excess of last year. Under the adverse influences from abroad our market opened with free selling at 5 points decline, to rally upon the closing reports from Liverpool, which showed an advance ifrom the early dispatches and a steadier tone. The buying this morning and during the day was principally to cover previous sales, as a natural reaction was to be looked for after such a sharp decline in prices, but the market lacked the vitality manifested on the decline in December, and unless we receive better advices from Liverpool the decline in prices seems likely to continue. Receipts are expected to be large tomorrow, as estimates are current from New Orleans that receipts at that port alone will be 16,000 bales. Offerings of high grades are being made from the south, brought out by the high premium commanded by good cotton. 11.177 Hubbard, Price & Co.'s Circular.

opened here also lower. There was, however, good buying on the part of shorts which served to keep prices steady, and after a fair day of business closed at a slight recovery. We shall see such halting spells at every decline, for it is only natural the shorts should secure their profits as the opportunity presents itself. We are of the impression that, beyond temporary reactions, nothing is to be looked on the bull side of cotton, while, if the planting season is a normal one, we shall see a lower level of prices. LEHMAN BROS. hall see a lower level of prices. LEHMAN BROS.

THE CHICAGO MARKET.

Features of the Speculative Movement in Grain and Provisions.

CHICAGO, January 19.—Bear news, bear markets and bull acquiescence in a downward direction of prices by the wholesale abandonment of their holdings were the features of the day/in business on the board. The wheat market opened very weak and at a decline for May of Mc since Saturday, the bulk of the first transactions taking place at 94%c. The first decline in prices was arrested at 94%c, the reaction which followed carrying the market up to 94%@94%c for May, and the subsequent important fluctuations were 94%c, 94%c, 93%c, 94c, 94%c and 934c.

The corn market was weak at the opening. The first trading in May was done at 51c, as compared with 514c Grain and Provisions.

trading in May was done at 51c, as compared with 51½c at the close of the market Saturday. After selling at 50½c there was a momentary reaction to 51½ and afterward there was weakness to the close. The decline was stopped at 50½c.

The oats market was only fairly active. Heavy re ceipts, liberal estimates for tomorrow and weakness in the other markets were the principal bear influences. Fluctuations were frequent but narrow. The provision market sold off immediately that trading commenced, grain commission men being free sellers. Packers were sellers also, although hogs were reported to be selling well at the yards at 10@15c ad vance. There were reactions of the decline, but hear value. There were reactions of the decline, but heaviness was the prevailing appearance of the pit. Pork at the close showed a decline, compared with the closing quotations on Saturday, of 7½@10c. Lard lost 2½c on the same comparison, and ribs from 2½@5c.

CHICAGO, January 19.—The fine weather continues.
The bears came to the front in fine trim this morning and have had it about all their own way during the entire day. The report of a heavy bank failure in Kansas City this morning caused a somewhat uneasy feeling and the would-be buyers had to hold off. About the only heavy buying of whet was here. feeling and the would-be buyers had to hold off. About the only heavy buying of wheat was by a large local speculator covering his shorts, which acted as only a temporary check on the decline. The demand was quite good for flour and the movement liberal, but the speculative feeling in everything was decidedly weak. Corn was active, but, like wheat, was heavy with a declining market. The movement in the country is reported to be more liberal. This, together with the decline in wheat, was the principal cause of the decline in corn.

Grown Receipts of hogs were again large all over the country with liberal receipts estimated for tomorrow, the whole closing somewhat lower than Saturday, with the outlook not at all favorable for holders. We see nothing to encourage buyers for May delivery.

gotiations. Finally the tickets were ready, and, in addition to the number paid for, twenty or twenty-five others were given him for parties who did not send their money to him in time, but expressed a desire to join the band.

Davis says that he did not like the looks of the board, and consulted a number of white men before parting with the funds entrusted to his care, because he was anxious to be sure that the people were not going to be swindled out of their money.

Yesterday, in his talk, which was rather rague, he seemed to be still troubled about the validity of the tickets. He was unable to tell the address of the company or the place where he met the board.

When asked the name of the Atlanta organization, he said he only knew it as "The African Band." He did not remember how many tickets he purchased, but he had distributed most of them among the bands to which they belonged.

The tickets cost $1.02, but he said it was against the rules to show the tickets to outsiders, and Tom, Dick and Harry, outide of the band, would not be sold any of the tickets. What Will They Do?

Davis was asked as to when the negroes proposed to leave for Africa, but he was unable to say, as they had as yet received no notice from the head agents. The tickets were good from any seaport determined upon, across the ocean to liberia. The emigrants would be allowed to take along their bedding and wearing apparel free of charge.

"I really couldn't say. I only know that they all register as they come in, and there are a good many of them."

"Are there more to come?"

"I suppose there are. I am unable to say. My connection with it has been solely to see that they are not swindled out of their money, receiving nothing in return."

As for the emigrants themselves, nothing at all can be learned from them. They will not talk, and look on and treat with impertinent suspicion any one who seeks information.

The movement is begining to assume serious proportions, as the dumping into the city, at this season, of several hundred negroes who know nothing of city life, and who have no means of support, is liable to work to the serious detriment of the public welfare.

History of the Movement.

serious detriment of the public welfare.

History of the Movement.

The movement began about six or seven months ago, when a number of envoys suddenly appeared in this city and neighboring towns, and the negroes began holding secret meetings. One of these was Thomas Peake, another T. F. Fisher, and the third claimed to be a native African, named Albert.

These men began to disseminate the idea of emigrating to Africa, where the negroes could enjoy absolute freedom and immunity from the rule of white men.

In terms of glowing eloquence, such as thein negro orator always has at his command, they discribed the riches and the glories of that favored land. Their statements were often so extravagant that it passes belief that even the most ignorant cornfield negro could place credence in them.

The more intelligent negroes and the white

But the movement was managed in a methodical manner that shows that it was preaty well planned by the shrewd men who are at the head of it. Finally some of the better educated negroes of the city began to protest against the teachings of the envoys and agents of the so-called "Congo-American Steamship Association."

This caused a great stir, and the converts to the scheme pulled off from the opponents of the measure and the meetings were continued. According to the way the agents put it, the

According to the way the agents put it, the negroes were to be taken across the ocean, carrying with them their household goods, except furniture, for the nominal price of $1.

Arrived there they would find themselves in a country where people live almost without work; would be fed and clothed until they got settled, and would be given land free of charge.

The Leaders Arrested. Finally matters came to such a pass that the Finally matters came to such a pass that the grand jury took cognizance of the matter and true bills were found against Peake and Fisher, on the charge of misdemeanor, the allegations being that they were doing business as emigrant agents without having paid the license. Peake left the city, but Fisher was arrested and jailed. He gave bond in the required sum. Schell, the well-known negro business man, going his bond.

The meetings were kept up. The arrest of Fisher seemed to have increased the enthusiasm of the deluded negroes, who flocked to the hall night after night, drinking in the honeyed words of the emigrant orators.

A few days ago Schell decided to give up his charge, and turned Fisher over to the sheriff of Fulton county, and he was again placed in jail to await his trial.

L. M. Robinson, Pharmacist, Sabina, O., certifies: "Ayer's Sarsaparilla has always been a great seller. My customers think there is no blood-purifier equal to it."

"For many years I was afflicted with scrofulous running sores, which, at last bescrottous runing sores, which, at last be-came so bad the doctors advised amputating one of my legs to save my life. I began taking Ayer's Sarsaparilla and soon saw an improvement. After using about two dozen bottles the sores were healed. I continue to take a few bottles of this medicine each year, for my blood, and am no longer trou-bled with sores.
